

MR. BALDWIN: And you'll present that to the secretary in writing, please?

MS. CORN: Do you want me to copy it right now or after it gets voted?

MR. COOPER: Right now.

MR. COATES: Mr. Chairman?

MR. BALDWIN: Delegate Coates?

MR. COATES: I have a point of order as to the appropriateness of the amendment at this point. It's my recollection that in the action of the convention with respect to the article from the executive, we provided that the governor would make appointments.

MS. CORN: Except for judicial and legislative positions; that's very clear. That was under Executive.

MR. BALDWIN: I'm sorry, delegate Coates. It is your understanding that --

MR. COATES: The executive would make appointments to fill vacancies occurring.

MR. BALDWIN: The delegate of the executive article --

MS. CORN: Excuse me. May I --

MR. BALDWIN: No, no. Delegate Simmons?

MS. SIMMONS: Upon advice and consent, that is correct.

MS. CORN: No, it isn't.

MS. SIMMONS: What we provided for was state senators; I'm sorry.

MR. BALDWIN: I think in the future, the secretary should have an adopted article -- you know, those articles that have been adopted. They keep referring back to them, and everyone is saying the authority of what's in there and it just delays us. So, in the future, if we can have a copy, you know, of those that have been adopted, then we could refer to what was adopted and what was not, because in the absence of that I'm going to call all of that out of order since we don't have any --

MS. CORN: Excuse me, Mr. President.

MR. BALDWIN: No, you do not have the floor, delegate.

MS. CORN: Point of order, Mr. President. If you'll give me a minute, I will read it to you from the executive branch article.

MR. BALDWIN: There's no point; there's nothing on the floor at this point. So, what you should do is get your motion ready so we can get it on the floor.

MS. CORN: My motion is ready; I moved it.

MR. BALDWIN: There's nothing on the floor yet.
